

the 5W's of episodic compassion clubs

Formed in response to the ever-mounting overdose deaths in British Columbia and across Canada, the Drug User Liberation Front looks to provide tangible solutions to ongoing drug toxicity deaths caused by the failure of the regime of prohibition.

who

We are an organized collective of people who use drugs that are empowered to make change through direct action, courage and conviction, and fueled by the memories of the countless friends, families, and loved ones whose lives have been taken by an unjust, broken system of laws and policies.

what

The DULF currently runs episodic compassion clubs, or one off distribution events of tested Cocaine, Heroin, and Methamphetamine, with the goal of demonstrating that a regulated drug supply can save lives and reduce the risk of overdose death in our communities.

The DULF believes that if folks understand what drug they are taking and how they are dosing themselves, they are at far less risk of overdose and therefore will be safer using drugs.

The DULF seeks to come alongside people who use drugs in order to demonstrate that models of safer drug use and substance provision developed and implemented by the community are most likely to save lives.

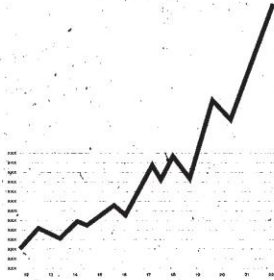

The DULF is not acting to replace existing networks of supply but rather to buttress the safety of users in this network by acting as a regulatory body that tests existing supply lines in order to ensure that consumers know what they are taking.

why

1. The Volatility of the Illegal Drug Supply is Killing People
2. Providing Drug Users with Non-Toxic Drugs Vastly Lowers the Death Rate
3. Barriers to Accessing Safe Drugs Cause People to Turn Back to Risky Street Drugs
4. Prohibition Doesn't Work
5. The DULF Fulfillment Center and Compassion Club Model is Saving Lives Right Now and Will Save More if We are Permitted to Continue our Work

where DULF's episodic compassion clubs are currently run across the province in conjunction with Drug User Groups who act as nexus points for distributions. These demonstrations are primarily done as protest actions against the ongoing death we see in our community, and the DULF works with these user groups to provide substances with a tested and understood potency and content, which they distribute to their membership at their discretion.

when

DULF's provincial episodic compassion clubs have historically been run on major anniversaries related to the provincial health emergency.
